I. INTRODUCTION

Plaintiff Anthony Johnson’s (“Johnson”) sixth action against Defendants David Huffman, David Smilkovich, Richard Turner, Manuel Altamirano, and David Kinney (collectively “Management Defendants”) has no more merit than the previous five actions. Defendants are shareholders, and current or former officers and/or directors of Defendant Storix, Inc. (“Storix”), who were represented by Defendants Michael McCloskey, David Aveni, and Marty Ready (“the Wilson Elser Defendants”) in the prior actions. The only conspiracy alleged in Johnson’s First Amended Complaint is the successful defense of the Management Defendants in those actions by the Wilson Elser Defendants. There is no allegation of any actual conspiracy with the Judicial Defendants – Hon. Marilyn Huff, Hon. Randa Trapp, Hon. Kevin Enright, and Hon. Katherine Bacal. To the contrary, the conspiracy alleged amounts to nothing more than the successful – and privileged – defense of Johnson’s prior lawsuits. As a matter of law, the defense of those lawsuits cannot form the basis of Johnson’s alleged claims of “Conspiracy to Interfere with Civil Rights (42 U.S.C. § 1985(2))” and “Neglect to Prevent Conspiracy to Interfere (42 U.S.C. § 1986).”

II. STATEMENT OF RELEVANT FACTS

As alleged in Johnson’s First Amended Complaint (“FAC”), Johnson was Storix’s sole shareholder until 2011.¹ FAC, p. 3, ll. 12-14. In 2011, Johnson announced that he’d been diagnosed with cancer and transferred operation and management responsibilities in Storix to Defendants. Id. at p. 3, ll. 15-18. Johnson returned to Storix in 2013, but resigned again in 2014. Id. at p. 3, ln. 27 – p. 4, ln. 2. Since that time, he has been engaged in a continuous progression of lawsuits against Storix and the Management Defendants. In the instant lawsuit, he has also added his opponents’ attorneys and the judges that heard his cases, alleging a conspiracy to 1 deprive him of his civil rights.

2 A. Johnson Lost the First Three Actions After Two Jury Trials and One 3 Bench Trial.

4 In October of 2014, Johnson filed his first lawsuit against Storix, alleging 5 copyright infringement by Storix. FAC, p. 4, ll. 8-10. In August of 2015, Storix filed 6 a breach of fiduciary duty action against Johnson in California Superior Court. FAC, 7 p. 4, ll. 21-23. In October of 2015, Johnson filed his own action in the Superior Court 8 alleging derivative claims against the Management Defendants. FAC, p. 5, ll. 8-10. In 9 2016, Johnson filed a cross-complaint against the Management Defendants in 10 Storix's Superior Court action. FAC, p. 7, ll. 1-5.

11 Judge Huff was the judicial officer assigned to the Federal trademark action.
12 FAC, p. 4, ln. 11. Judge Trapp was assigned to Storix's Superior Court action. FAC, 13 p. 4, ln. 26. Judge Joel Wohlfeil was assigned to Johnson's derivative Superior Court 14 action. FAC, p. 5, ll. 8-11. Storix's and Johnson's Superior Court actions were 15 consolidated prior to trial. FAC, p. 7, ll. 14-15. Judge Enright was the judicial officer 16 who conducted both the jury and bench trials in the consolidated Superior Court 17 actions. FAC, p. 7, ln. 25 – p. 9, ln. 10.

18 Defendants Paul Tyrell and Sean Sullivan represented Storix in the above-19 referenced actions. FAC, p. 2, ll. 26-28, p. 5, ll. 2-3, and p. 4, ll. 21-23 and 16-18.
20 Defendants Marty Ready, David Aveni, and Michael McCloskey represented the 21 Management Defendants in the consolidated Superior Court actions. FAC, p. 3, ll. 1-22 3 and p. 5, ll. 14-17.

23 Johnson lost both the Federal copyright action and the consolidated Superior 24 Court action. FAC, p. 6, ll. 3-9; p. 8, ll. 7-9 and 16-18; and p. 8, ll. 25-27. A jury 25 found for Storix in Johnson's copyright case, a jury found for Storix and the 26 Management Defendants in Storix's breach of fiduciary duty action, and Judge 27 Enright found for Storix on Johnson's derivative claims. Ibid. Johnson appealed both 28 cases. FAC, p. 6, ll. 18-21 and p. 10, ll. 8-10; p. 9, ll. 20-21. The copyright action

1 appeal has been resolved, but the Superior Court judgment remains on appeal. Ibid.

2 B. Johnson Has Filed Four New Actions Since Losing the First Three Trials.

3 Having lost all three trials against Storix and the Management Defendants, 4 Johnson filed a new lawsuit against the Management Defendants in early 2019
5 alleging conversion of retained earnings and malicious prosecution. FAC, p. 10, ll.
6 22-24. That case was assigned to Judge Bacal. Id. at p. 10, ll. 25. He voluntarily 7 dismissed that action with both a demurrer and anti-SLAPP motion pending, after he 8 was unable to convince Judge Bacal to enter a default against the Management 9 Defendants. FAC, p. 11, ll. 20-23.

10 Hoping to find a more receptive forum for his claims, Johnson re-filed his 11 conversion and malicious prosecution action in this Court, adding Storix's attorneys 12 as defendants on the malicious prosecution claim. FAC, p. 11, ll. 23-24. The case was 13 assigned to Judge Huff. FAC, p. 11, ll. 27-28. Thereafter, on Defendants' motions to 14 dismiss and anti-SLAPP motions, Judge Huff dismissed five of Johnson's seven 15 claims. FAC, p. 12, ll. 5-13.

16 Subsequently, Johnson decided to try the Superior Court again, filing a new 17 complaint against Storix seeking the same retained earnings that were the subject of 18 his earlier conversion lawsuit. FAC, p. 13, ln. 27 – p. 14, ln. 2. That case was 19 assigned to Judge Bacal. Id. at p. 14, ll. 21-22. Johnson then dismissed that Superior 20 Court lawsuit and filed the instant action in this Court. Id. at p. 14, ll. 21-22.

21 C. The Allegations of Johnson's First Amended Complaint are Limited to a 22 Recital of the Procedural History of The Prior Actions – There Are No
23 Allegations of Any Actual Conspiracy.

24 Johnson's First Amended Complaint asserts two causes of action (the Second 25 and Third Causes of Action) against the Management Defendants: "Conspiracy to 26 Interfere with Civil Rights (42 U.S.C. §1985(2)), and "Neglect to Prevent 27 Conspiracy to Interfere (42 U.S.C. § 1986)." However, Johnson's First Amended 28 Complaint contains no allegations of any such conspiracy. Paragraphs 14 through 66, titled "Statement of the Case," recite a detailed history of the Parties' past litigation,

1 including the juries' verdicts and the Judicial Defendants' rulings on various 2 contested motions and other issues. Johnson does not assert there was any type of ex 3 parte communications or meetings between the Defendants; only that the 4 Management Defendants and their counsel took certain positions in the litigation 5 itself, and that the Judicial Defendants – like both juries – were not persuaded by 6 Johnson's allegations and ruled in Storix's and/or the Management Defendants' favor 7 in the prior actions. Ibid.

8 III. ARGUMENT

9 A. Johnson's Second and Third Causes of Action are Subject to Dismissal 10 Under Rule 12(b)(6).

11 Dismissal under Rule 12(b)(6) is appropriate where a complaint lacks a 12 “cognizable legal theory” or “sufficient facts alleged under a cognizable legal 13 theory.” Balistreri v. Pacifica Police Dep't., 901 F.2d 696, 699 (9th Cir. 1988).
 14 Plaintiff must allege “enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its 15 face.” Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 127 S. Ct. 1955, 1974 (2007). All material 16 allegations are taken as true and construed in the light most favorable to the plaintiff.
 17 NL Indus., Inc. v. Kaplan, 792 F.2d 896, 898 (9th Cir. 1986). “For a complaint to 18 survive a motion to dismiss, the non-conclusory factual content, and reasonable 19 inferences from that content, must be plausibly suggestive of a claim entitling the 20 plaintiff to relief.” Moss v. U.S. Secret Serv., 572 F.3d 962, 969 (9th Cir. 2009) 21 (quotations omitted).

22 However, the courts are not required to “assume the truth of legal conclusions 23 merely because they are cast in the form of factual allegations.” Fayer v. Vaughn, 649 24 F.3d 1061, 1064 (9th Cir. 2011) (per curiam) (internal quotation marks omitted).
 25 Mere “conclusory allegations of law and unwarranted inferences are insufficient to 26 defeat a motion to dismiss.” Adams v. Johnson, 355 F.3d 1179, 1183 (9th Cir. 2004).

1 1. Johnson’s First Amended Complaint Fails to State Sufficient Facts
 2 to Support the Causes of Action Alleged Under 42 U.S.C. §§ 1985(2) 3 and 1986.

- 4 a) Johnson has not alleged the basic elements of a conspiracy, as required by 42 U.S.C. § 1985.

5 Johnson asserts a claim against the Management Defendants under 42 U.S.C § 6 1985(2). The essential elements of a claim under Section 1985 are: (1) existence of 7 conspiracy, (2) for purpose of depriving the plaintiff of equal protection, (3) an act in 8 furtherance of conspiracy, and (4) an injury to the plaintiff’s person or property, or 9 deprivation of any right of a citizen of the United States. See, e.g., Knight v. City of 10 New York, 303 F.Supp.2d 485, 501 (S.D. NY, 2004). Conspiracy is an essential 11 element of a claim under Section 1985(2). U.S. ex rel. Simmons v. Zibilich, 542 F.2d 12 249, 261 (5th Cir., 1976). To prove a conspiracy, a plaintiff must prove there was an 13 agreement between the co-conspirators to inflict a wrong against the plaintiff. Avalos 14 v. Baca, 517 F.Supp.2d 1156, 1170 (C.D. Cal., 2007) (holding “there must be an 15 agreement or meeting of the minds”), citing Woodrum v. Woodward County, 866
 16 F.2d 1121, 1126 (9th Cir., 1989). The Ninth Circuit applies a heightened pleading 17 standard for conspiracy claims for the deprivation of constitutional rights. Jones v.
 18 Tozzi, 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 63278 at 37-38 (E.D. Cal. 2006).

19 Here, Johnson has not alleged facts sufficient to show these basic conspiracy 20 elements. Johnson makes no allegation that the Management Defendants ever reached 21 any agreement or meeting of the minds with any of the other Defendants to deprive 22 Johnson of his civil rights. To the contrary, Johnson alleges that the Management 23 Defendants simply defended Johnson’s prior claims, and were successful in that 24 defense. This falls far short of the Ninth Circuit’s heightened pleading standards.
 25 Under the Ninth Circuit’s heightened pleading standard, a plaintiff must “plead with 26 particularity as to which defendants conspired, how they conspired and how the 27 conspiracy led to a deprivation of his constitutional rights.” Jones v. Tozzi, supra, 28 2006 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 63278 at 37-38, citing, Harris v. Roderick, 126 F.3d 1189, 1 1196 (9th Cir. 1989).

2 The successful defense of Johnson's prior claims by the Management
3 Defendants does not amount to a conspiracy between the Management Defendants 4 and the Judicial Defendants. Judges rule on motions and other matters all the time –
5 one side has to win and one side has to lose most of the time. To hold that adverse 6 rulings or the lack of success in litigation supports a cause of action for conspiracy 7 between opposing parties and judges would mean every ruling a judge makes 8 amounts to a conspiracy with the prevailing party. Hence, the need for a specific, 9 heightened pleading identifying who conspired and how they conspired. It is not 10 sufficient simply to allege that Johnson lost, and therefore a conspiracy must have 11 existed.

12 Likewise, there is no factual allegation that any of the Defendants intended to 13 deprive Johnson of any civil rights. Johnson pursued his claims – and continues to 14 pursue his claims – through multiple lawsuits. There is no allegation that any 15 Defendant sought to hinder his access to the courts. Rather, the allegations are that in 16 those court proceedings, the Defendants denied Johnson's right to inspect Storix's 17 records, imposed bonds on him, and ignored statutes and controlling law. FAC, p. 16, 18 ll. 1-5. Even if taken as true, these allegations merely amount to a misguided 19 complaint that the Judicial Defendants got it wrong in the prior litigation when they 20 ruled in the Management Defendants' favor on these issues. An adverse ruling in 21 litigation does not amount to evidence that the Defendants intended to deny the losing 22 party any civil rights.

23 It is not enough to say that the courts ruled against him in favor of the 24 Management Defendants, and therefore there must have been a conspiracy between 25 the Defendants. Johnson has to plead facts showing there was an agreement or 26 meeting of the minds between the Defendants, and that they took specific action 27 designed to deprive him of his civil rights. He has not done so, and the Court is not 28 required to accept his conclusory allegations that his constitutional rights were

1 violated. Accordingly, his First Amended Complaint fails to plead sufficient facts to 2 support his cause of action under Section 1985(2).

3 b) Johnson has not alleged the required racial, or other protected 4 class, animus required by 42 U.S.C. § 1985(2).

5 In addition to the basic elements of conspiracy, in order to sustain a claim 6 under Section 1985(2), a plaintiff must allege that there was a racial, or other 7 protected class-based reason behind the conspiracy. “A cognizable claim under the 8 relevant clauses of § 1985 requires an allegation of racial or class-based animus.”
9 Sharnese v. California, 547 Fed.Appx. 820, 823 (9th Cir. 2013), citing Usher v. City 10 of Los Angeles, 828 F.2d 556, 561 (9th Cir.1987). “To withstand a motion to dismiss 11 claims under Section 1985(2), a plaintiff must allege facts demonstrating that class-12 based discrimination was the reason for defendants' conduct.” Love v. Bolinger, 927 13 F.Supp 1131 (S.D. Ind., 1996), citing Kush v. Rutledge, 460 U.S. 719, 726 (1985).
14 “To establish racial or class-based animus, a plaintiff must show ‘invidiously 15 discriminatory motivation ... behind the conspirators' action.’” Usher, supra, 828 F.2d 16 at 561, citing Griffin v. Breckenridge, 403 U.S. 88, 102 (1971). The lack of such an 17 allegation is sufficient in and of itself to grant a motion under Rule 12(b)(6). Bretz v.
18 Kelman, 773 F.2d 1026, 1029-1030 (9th Cir. 1985).

19 Here, Johnson’s failure to plead such an allegation in his First Amended 20 Complaint is fatal to his Section 1985(2) claim. There is no allegation anywhere in 21 the First Amended Complaint that any Defendant acted based on some race or other 22 protected class-based animus. At best, the First Amended Complaint could be read to 23 allege that the Management Defendants acted as they did in order to convert the 24 $875,000 of “past income” Johnson claims in Count 2 of his Section 1985(2) cause of 25 action.² That is not sufficient to satisfy the required racial or other discriminatory 26 basis for a viable claim under Section 1985(2).

27 _____ 28 ² A claim that was already the subject of Johnson’s prior conversion claims, as discussed in more detail below.

1 c) Johnson has failed to plead facts sufficient to support his claim 2 under Section 1986.

3 To prevail on a § 1986 claim Plaintiff must show that: "(1) the defendant had 4 actual knowledge of a § 1985 conspiracy; (2) the defendant had the power to prevent 5 or aid in preventing the commission of a § 1985 violation; (3) the defendant neglected 6 or refused to prevent a § 1985 conspiracy; and (4) a wrongful act was permitted."
7 Clark v. Clabaugh, 20 F.3d 1290, 1295 (3d Cir. 1994). If Plaintiff fails to state a 8 claim under Section 1985, there can be no liability under § 1986. Dacey v. Dorsey, 9 568 F.2d 275, 277 (2d Cir. 1977). By its own express terms, 42 U.S.C. § 1986 10 presupposes the existence of a conspiracy under 42 U.S.C. § 1985: "Every person 11 who, having knowledge that any of the wrongs conspired to be done, and mentioned 12 in section 1985, are about to be committed, and having power to prevent or aid in 13 preventing the commission of the same, neglects or refuses to do so, if such wrongful 14 act be committed, shall be liable to the party injured..." 42 U.S.C § 1986. Thus, there 15 must be an actual conspiracy in existence for a defendant to be liable for failing to 16 prevent that conspiracy from succeeding. As set forth above, Johnson has not plead 17 sufficient facts to establish the existence of a conspiracy between and amongst the 18 Defendants. The lack of facts supporting the existence of a conspiracy is fatal not 19 only to Johnson's claim under Section 1985(2), but also to his claim under Section 20 1986.

21 Additionally, Section 1986 requires a plaintiff to prove that the defendant had 22 both "knowledge of" and the "power to prevent or aid in preventing the commission" 23 of an act interfering with the plaintiff's civil rights. See, also, Brandon v. Lotter, 157 24 F.3d 537, 539 (8th Cir. 1998) (Section 1986 claims depend on "proof of actual 25 knowledge by a defendant of the wrongful conduct"). Here, Johnson's First Amended 26 Complaint is silent on facts demonstrating the Management Defendants had 27 knowledge of any interference with his civil rights, or that the Management 28 Defendants had the power to stop it. Reading the First Amended Complaint in the 1 light most favorable to Johnson, his theory appears to be that the Management 2 Defendants should not have defended the prior lawsuits (despite the juries' and 3 judges' rulings in their favor), and should have stood aside and let Johnson prevail on 4 his claims. Not only is that complete and utter nonsense, but it is woefully far from 5 alleging facts capable of supporting a claim under Section 1986.

6 Finally, Section 1986 requires that the wrongful act that is the subject of the 7 conspiracy must actually be committed. 42 U.S.C. § 1986 ("if such wrongful act be 8 committed"). Here, Johnson has not plead facts demonstrating that his civil rights 9 were actually interfered with.³ As noted above, Johnson admits in his allegations that 10 he has always had full access to the courts, he just does not like the way the juries and 11 judges have ruled against him. There is no factual allegation that his rights were 12 actually interfered with, and as such his claim under Section 1986 cannot stand.

13 2. The Alleged Acts Are Protected By California's Litigation Privilege.

14 Johnson cannot maintain his claims against Management Defendants because 15 they are immunized from liability by the litigation privilege. Count 1 of Johnson's 16 conspiracy cause of action allege that "Defendants unlawfully denied Johnson rights 17 to his own company records and knowingly imposed unnecessary bonds and 18 substantial costs and fees on Johnson, intentionally ignored and misrepresented 19 statutes and controlling law, in an attempt to prevent Johnson from defending 20 himself, litigating his claims, and affording an attorney to represent him on appeal." 21 Johnson's neglect to prevent conspiracy under Section 1986 incorporates these 22 allegations.

23 The litigation privilege established by Civil Code section 47 applies to any 24 communication: (1) made in judicial or quasi-judicial proceedings; (2) made by 25

26 _____
27 ³ Johnson pleads that "Defendants violated Johnson's constitutional rights[,]" in 28 Paragraph 74 of the First Amended Complaint, but as discussed above, the Court is not required to accept alleged conclusions of law. Rather, parties are required to plead sufficient facts to support those conclusions.

1 litigants or other participants authorized by law; (3) made to achieve the objects of 2 the litigation; and (4) that has some connection or logical relation to the action. Civ.
3 Code § 47, subd. (b); Silberg v. Anderson (1990) 50 Cal.3d 205, 212. The California 4 Supreme Court has described the litigation privilege as 5 “absolute in nature” barring any “threat of liability for communications made during 6 all kinds of truth-seeking proceedings” and “immunizing participants from liability 7 for torts arising from communications made during judicial proceedings.” Silberg, 8 supra, 50 Cal.3d at 213-214.

9 The principal purpose of the litigation privilege is to afford litigants and 10 witnesses the utmost freedom of access to the courts without fear of being harassed 11 subsequently by derivative tort actions. Id. at 213. Closely related to this principal 12 purpose is that of promoting the “effectiveness of judicial proceedings by 13 encouraging ‘open channels of communication and the presentation of evidence’ in 14 judicial proceedings on the rationale that ‘the paths which lead to the ascertainment 15 of truth should be left as free and unobstructed as possible.” Edwards v. Centex v.
16 Real Estate Corp. (1997) 53 Cal.App.4th 15, 29. In barring subsequent actions based 17 on the statements of witnesses, attorneys or parties during litigation, the privilege is 18 intended to force litigants to utilize the available discovery apparatus to uncover the 19 truth prior to final judgment. Id.

20 To achieve this end, the absolute privilege is interpreted broadly to apply to 21 any communication having some relation to a judicial or quasi-judicial proceeding, 22 irrespective of the communication's maliciousness or untruthfulness. Kashian v.
23 Harriman (2002) 98 Cal.App.4th 892, 912–913 [“[p]ut another way, application of 24 the privilege does not depend on the publisher’s ‘motives, morals, ethics or intent’”].
25 Citations omitted. Any doubt about whether the privilege applies is resolved in favor 26 of applying it. Id. at 913.

27 While it is difficult to decipher what specific wrongful actions Johnson alleges 28 Management Defendants took as opposed to the Judicial and Attorney Defendants,

1 Johnson's allegations in general are impermissibly based on statements made and 2 actions taken during prior litigation. The majority of Johnson's First Amended 3 Complaint recites a detailed history of the Parties' past litigation, including the juries' 4 verdicts and the Judicial Defendants' rulings on various contested motions and other 5 issues without alleging any specific facts supporting his claimed conspiracy. (FAC 6 14-66.) Johnson alleges that during this prior litigation, "Defendants unlawfully 7 denied Johnson rights to his own company records and knowingly imposed 8 unnecessary bonds and substantial costs and fees on Johnson, intentionally ignored 9 and misrepresented statutes and controlling law, in attempt to prevent Johnson from 10 defending himself, litigating his claims, and affording an attorney to represent him on 11 appeal." (FAC 73.) For example, Johnson alleges that "Defendants used the 2015 12 Email against Johnson in violation of his First Amendment right to free speech.
13 Defendants relied on each other's pleadings, orders, and allegations based on the 14 2015 Email that was neither a valid claim nor ever litigated."

15 However, these allegations cannot support a cause of action against 16 Management Defendants because they are absolutely barred by the litigation 17 privilege. The litigation privilege protects a party's presentation of evidence in 18 judicial proceedings and thus, Johnson cannot state a claim against Management 19 Defendants or their counsel based on their use of a 2015 Email in their pleadings or 20 as evidence. Likewise, Johnson cannot state a claim against Management Defendants 21 based on their statutory arguments and positions they took defending against 22 Johnson's prior claims because the litigation privilege bars actions based on a party 23 and their counsel's statements during litigation, regardless of whether those 24 statements are untrue. See Kashian v. Harriman, supra, 98 Cal.App.4th at p. 920 25 ["communications made in connection with litigation do not necessarily fall outside 26 the privilege merely because they are, or are alleged to be, fraudulent, perjurious, 27 unethical, or even illegal"]. Therefore, this Court should dismiss Johnson's claims 28 against Management Defendants because they are absolutely barred by the litigation

1 privilege.

2 3. Johnson’s Claim for Conspiracy to Interfere with Civil Rights Is 3 Barred by Res Judicata.

4 Though Johnson titles his claim “Conspiracy to Interfere with Civil Rights,” 5 the actual allegation of Count 2 is that “Defendants abused their shareholder majority 6 to induce Storix to terminate Johnson’s at-will employment maliciously and without 7 justifiable cause...” FAC, p. 16, ll. 13-16. Thus, Johnson’s instant Complaint asserts, 8 for the fifth time in the progeny of litigation filed by Johnson, a claim based on the 9 same basic factual allegations against Management Defendants. No matter how 10 Johnson titles his claim, under the doctrine of res judicata, Johnson is precluded from 11 re-litigating these issues in this current lawsuit under the guise of a civil rights 12 lawsuit.

13 Res judicata, or claim preclusion, prevents relitigation of the same cause of 14 action in a second suit between the same parties or parties in privity with them.
15 Mpoyo v. Litton Electro-Optical Systems, 430 F.3d 985, 987 (9th Cir. 2005).
16 Whether two suits involve the same claim or cause of action requires courts to look at 17 four criteria, which are not applied mechanistically: (1) whether the two suits arise 18 out of the same transactional nucleus of facts; (2) whether rights or interests 19 established in the prior judgment would be destroyed or impaired by prosecution of 20 the second action; (3) whether the two suits involve infringement of the same right; 21 and (4) whether substantially the same evidence is presented in the two actions. Chao 22 v. A-One Med. Servs., Inc., 346 F.3d 908, 921 (9th Cir.2003).

23 Courts apply a transaction test to determine whether the two suits share a 24 common nucleus of operative fact. Int’l Union v. Karr, 994 F.2d 1426, 1429–30 (9th 25 Cir.1993). “Whether two events are part of the same transaction or series depends on 26 whether they are related to the same set of facts and whether they could conveniently 27 be tried together.” Western Sys., Inc. v. Ulloa, 958 F.2d 864, 871 (9th Cir.1992).
28 Johnson’s Conspiracy to Interfere with Civil Rights claim and prior breach of 1 fiduciary duty claims against Management Defendants arise from Management 2 Defendant's conduct while Johnson was a shareholder at Storix and specifically from 3 the events leading up to his termination. Thus, this subsequent action arises out of 4 the same transactional nucleus of facts and satisfies the first criterion.

5 Likewise, Johnson's current claim involves the same rights or interests 6 established in the prior judgment and would involve the same evidence presented in 7 his prior actions. Notably, his current claim seeks the same lost income of $875,000 8 that he sought in the consolidated action that went to trial in early 2018 before the 9 Honorable Kevin Enright. In the consolidated action, Johnson lost on every claim, 10 including the claims he asserted against Management Defendants, including his claim 11 for lost income damages. Johnson's current claim would also involve substantially 12 similar evidence as his prior claims because his current claim also involves 13 Management Defendants' termination of Johnson and the basis for their actions.
14 Although Johnson is now alleging Management Defendants' actions infringe upon 15 different rights, i.e. his constitutional rights as opposed to rights as a minority 16 shareholder, this does not preclude the Court from finding res judicata applies here 17 because the first criterion controls. See Mpoyo, supra, 430 F.3d. at 988 [even if latter 18 three criteria do not yield a clear outcome, first criterion controls and whether cases 19 share a common nucleus of operative fact is outcome determinative].

20 Since Johnson's current claim and prior claims against Management 21 Defendants involved the same allegations and common nucleus of operative facts, 22 this Court should find that Johnson's Conspiracy to Interfere with Civil Rights is 23 barred by res judicata.

24 4. Johnson's Claims are Barred by the Applicable Statutes of 25 Limitations.

26 Claims brought under § 1985 in California are subject to California's two-year 27 statute of limitations under California Code of Civil Procedure section 335.1. See 28 Wilson v. Garcia, 471 U.S. 261, 269 (1985); McDougal v. County of Imperial, 942

1 F.2d 668, 670 (9th Cir. 1991) (applying California's personal injury limitations period
 2 to claims brought under § 1983 and § 1985). A cause of action for conspiracy to deny 3 civil rights accrues when the defendants commit the “last overt act” necessary to give 4 rise to the cause of action. See Venegas v. Wagner, 704 F.2d 1144, 1146 (9th Cir.
 5 1983). In this case, Johnson expressly alleges that the Defendants were engaged in a 6 conspiracy to deny his civil rights as early as 2015. FAC, p. 4, ln. 21 – p. 6, ln. 9 (see, 7 also, FAC, p. 15, ll. 23-24 and p. 16, ll. 26-27, incorporating by reference all 8 previously-stated allegations). At the latest, the trial in front of Judge Enright took 9 place in January of 2018. FAC, p. 7, ll. 25-27. This action was not filed until July 16, 10 2020 – more than two years later.⁴ Thus, the acts giving rise to Johnson’s Section 11 1985 claim occurred more than two years before the filing of this action, and that 12 claim is barred by the applicable two-year statute of limitations.

13 Likewise, Johnson’s Section 1986 claim is barred by the one-year statute of 14 limitations expressly included in that statute. Under 42 U.S.C. § 1986, “no action 15 under the provisions of this section shall be sustained which is not commenced within 16 one year after the cause of action has accrued.” Johnson concedes in his First 17 Amended Complaint that the acts of Defendants in the alleged conspiracy took place 18 well in advance of July 16, 2019 (one year before this action was filed). Thus, the 19 Section 1986 claim is barred by the one-year statute of limitations.

20 B. The Court Lacks Jurisdiction to Adjudicate Johnson’s Claims Under the 21 Rooker-Feldman Doctrine.

22 A federal court generally may not rule on the merits of a case without first 23 determining that it has subject matter jurisdiction over the claims. Sinochem Int’l 24 Co., Ltd. v. Malaysia Int’l Shipping Corp., 549 U.S. 422, 430-31 (2007). A case is 25 properly dismissed for lack of subject matter jurisdiction under Federal Rule of Civil 26

27 _____ 28 ⁴ The Management Defendants respectfully request the Court take judicial notice of the date this action was commenced pursuant to Federal Rule of Evidence 201.

1 Procedure 12(b)(1) when the district court lacks the statutory or constitutional power 2 to adjudicate it. Makarova v. United States, 201 F.3d 110, 113 (2d Cir. 2000). When 3 subject matter jurisdiction is challenged, a plaintiff bears the burden of showing by a 4 preponderance of the evidence that subject matter jurisdiction exists. Chandler v.
5 State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 598 F.3d 1115, 1122 (9th Cir. 2010).

6 Though styled as a civil rights claim, Johnson’s First Amended Complaint 7 effectively seeks this Court’s review of prior state court decisions in violation of the 8 doctrine announced by the U.S. Supreme Court in Rooker v. Fidelity Trust Co., 263
9 U.S. 413 (1923) and Dist. of Columbia Ct. of Appeals v. Feldman, 460 U.S. 462
10 (1983). The Rooker-Feldman doctrine prohibits parties from seeking review – i.e. a 11 de facto appeal – of state court decisions in Federal court, holding that Federal courts 12 lack the jurisdiction to review such decisions. The Rooker-Feldman doctrine enforces 13 the jurisdictional limitation imposed on lower federal courts by 28 U.S.C. § 1257.
14 That statute provides that “[f]inal judgment or decrees rendered by the highest court 15 of a State in which a decision could be had, may be reviewed by the Supreme Court 16 by writ of certiorari.” Under this provision, “a party losing in state court is barred 17 from seeking what in substance would be appellate review of the state judgement in a 18 United States district court,” since such review is reserved by Section 1257 to the 19 United States Supreme Court. Johnson v. De Grandy, 512 U.S. 997, 1005-1006 20 (1994).

21 Nor may the Federal courts adjudicate issues that are inextricably intertwined 22 with such state court decisions. Exxon Mobil Corp. v. Saudi Basic Industries Corp., 23 544 U.S. 280, 292-293 (2005). The Rooker-Feldman Doctrine may apply even where 24 a plaintiff does “not directly contest the merits of a state court decision.” Ruesser v.
25 Wachovia Bank, 525 F.3d 855, 859 (9th Cir. 2008). A court must dismiss an action 26 for lack of subject matter jurisdiction if the claims are barred by the Rooker-Feldman
27 doctrine. See, e.g., Fleming v. Gordon & Wong Law Group, P.C., 723 F.Supp.2d 28 1219, 1224 (2010).

1 To determine whether the Rooker-Feldman doctrine applies, a district court 2 must first determine whether the action contains a forbidden de facto appeal of a state
 3 court decision. Noel v. Hall, 341 F.3d 1148, 1158 (9th Cir. 2003). A de facto appeal 4 exists when "a federal plaintiff asserts as a legal wrong an allegedly erroneous 5 decision by a state court, and seeks relief from a state court judgment based on that 6 decision." Id. at 1164. That is exactly what Johnson expressly seeks in Count 1 of his 7 civil rights causes of action under Sections 1985(2) and 1986.

- 8 • Johnson expressly alleges that "Defendants relied on each other's 9 pleadings, orders and allegations based on the 2015 Email that was 10 neither a valid claim nor ever litigated." FAC, p. 15, ll. 26-27. The "2015
 11 Email" Johnson refers to was introduced at trial in the Superior Court 12 action before Judge Enright. FAC, p. 8, ll. 22-25.
- 13 • Johnson alleges Defendants "denied Johnson rights to his own company 14 records..." FAC, p. 16, ll. 1-5. Judge Trapp of the Superior Court was 15 the judge who denied those inspection rights. FAC, p. 9, ll. 1-4.
- 16 • Johnson alleges Defendants "imposed unnecessary bonds and substantial 17 costs and fees on Johnson, intentionally ignored and misrepresented 18 statutes and controlling law..." FAC, p. 16, ll. 1-5. He concedes Judge 19 Bacal of the Superior Court was one of the judges who considered these 20 bond issues and, according to Johnson, ignored statutes and controlling 21 law. FAC, p. 10, ll. 22-28, and p. 11, ll. 1-19.

22 Though his allegations include gripes against Judge Huff as well, it is clear that the 23 wrongs he claims to have suffered at Judge Huff's hands are inextricably intertwined 24 with those he suffered in Superior Court. Thus, this Court lacks jurisdiction to hear 25 those claims under the Doctrine.

26 If claims raised in the federal court action are "inextricably intertwined" with 27 the state court's decision such that the adjudication of the federal claims would 28 undercut the state ruling or require the district court to interpret the application of 1 state laws or procedural rules, then the federal complaint must be dismissed for lack 2 of subject matter jurisdiction. Bianchi v. Rylaarsdam, 334 F.3d 895, 898 (9th Cir.

3 2003). Here, by finding that Johnson’s civil rights were interfered with in the 4 Superior Court actions, this Court would necessarily have to undercut the prior state 5 court decisions at issue in this matter. Not just the ultimate outcome of those actions, 6 but every decision made in the state court from filing of motions for bonds and costs 7 to rulings on the Management Defendants’ demurrers and anti-SLAPP motions. See 8 gen. FAC ¶ 22-66. Johnson’s express allegations that the harm done was “having to 9 defend invalid claims, dismissal of his valid claims, and denial of his rights to 10 petition,” as well as the fact that he seeks a declaration stating the state court judge 11 defendants “treated Johnson unfairly as a pro se litigant[,]” bar his claims under the 12 Rooker-Feldman Doctrine as a matter of law. FAC ¶ 70, 92.

13 IV. CONCLUSION

14 Johnson is clearly engaged in a litigation vendetta against the individuals he 15 perceives as having “stolen” his company, despite the fact that two juries and at least 16 one judge disagreed in three separate trials. After those trials, he filed a new case in 17 Superior Court in 2019, then dismissed it and re-filed in this Court, then filed another 18 new action in Superior Court, and now has filed the current action – his fourth in just 19 over eighteen months. This latest offering is a creative attempt to reframe the new 20 claims as a civil rights conspiracy between his opposing parties, their attorneys, and 21 the judges involved. The problem is he does not have the facts to support such claims, 22 and they are subject to dismissal under Rule 12(b)(6) and 12(b)(1). The Management 23 Defendants respectfully requests this Court dismiss the claims against the 24 Management Defendants accordingly.
